

LEAVES COMMITTEE ON NAVAL AFFAIRS IN HUFF AT CHAIRMAN

Congressman Britten Takes Exception to Rulings on Considering Preparedness.

Another "walkout" has occurred in the House Committee on Naval Affairs. This time Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois, a Republican member of the committee, is off the reservation because he is tired of the tedious hearings and the alleged arbitrariness of Chairman Padgett.

Mr. Britten walked from the committee room yesterday afternoon following two verbal clashes with the chairman. As he strode toward the door he announced that he'd leave the chairman to conduct the hearings as he pleased. As for himself, Mr. Britten said by his actions, he was "through."

It is expected Mr. Britten will come back, thereby following the precedents. About a year ago the late Congressman Samuel Witherpoon of Mississippi, an easy-going Southerner of the old school, who seldom lost his patience, walked from the Naval Committee hearings. He became aggrieved because Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts was pouring hot shot at the committee on the preparedness issue.

Mr. Witherpoon believed in a moderate sized navy. He couldn't check Mr. Gardner's vigorous utterances, and cross-examination of committee members, so Mr. Witherpoon put on his broad-brimmed hat, lighted a trusty pipe, and went his way.

Quits After Argument.

Congressman Frank Buchanan, it was said, at one time left an executive session of the committee.

The committee was having a heated session behind closed doors, the report went, and Mr. Buchanan "walked out" after quite an argument with some colleagues.

Congressman Britten stood for two minutes before he resumed his seat, and took a long walk. His action, according to his parting statement, was in the interest of preparedness for national defense, about which more than one verbal tilt has been staged at the Capitol.

Mr. Britten accused the chairman of refusing to call witnesses that ought to be heard and of "wasting" time on unimportant matters. "While the country is howling for preparedness," he said, "I will leave the chairman to conduct these hearings," said Mr. Britten, as he stalked from the room.

Have Two Clashes.

The Illinois member had two clashes during the day with Chairman Padgett. Early in the hearing Mr. Britten charged that Chairman Padgett had declined to call Rear Admiral Bradley Fiske because Secretary Daniels did not wish him to testify. This was hotly denied by Mr. Padgett. Subsequently Mr. Britten alleged that the chairman was arbitrarily shaping the record of the committee hearings and keeping pertinent matter out of the record.

Mr. Britten's first outburst came when the committee was considering the plan to expend approximately $2,000,000 in improvements at the Puget Sound navy yard.

"How does it happen," asked Mr. Butler of Pennsylvania, "that Secretary Daniels favors this proposition and his chief aid, Admiral Benson, is against it?"

Take Personal Opinions.

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

Horrors of Naval War Prostrate Von Tirpitz

German Admiral a Physical and Mental Wreck From Brooding Over Sea Tragedies.

BEGAN WITH THE LUSITANIA

Even Emperor William Was Unable to Calm Self-Republish of Navy's Chief.

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.

PARIS, March 21.—Admiral Von Tirpitz has become a physical and mental wreck by brooding over the deaths of scores of his closest friends in the German navy, according to reports in general circulation in diplomatic and military circles in London and Berlin.

A high Swiss military authority, who credits the reports, gave me some information that reached him recently, just before I left Berlin.

"Von Tirpitz," he said, "resembles in sensitiveness the great Japanese military leader, who, overwhelmed by the memory of vast losses of Japanese soldiers he sent against Port Arthur, committed suicide upon the death of the late Japanese Emperor."

Full of Self-Republish.

"Von Tirpitz has died a thousand deaths since the war began. He has bade farewell to hundreds of splendid young submarine officers, who went out to perish miserably under the water. The code of honor German submarines requires that they shoot themselves when the situation of their boat becomes hopeless."

"Von Tirpitz has pictured to himself—for such is the nature of his mentality—too many terrible under-water scenes involving his friends."

"It is known beyond a doubt that Von Tirpitz felt himself living in a world of horrors. Even the Kaiser himself was unable to calm his self-reproach."

Strain Became Too Great.

"German military men say the Lusitania incident was the beginning of Von Tirpitz's breakdown. He did not visit the admiralty offices for three days after the liner and its helpless human cargo went down. Each new sinking of a passenger boat only increased his depression."

"His subordinates made it a practice with the appropriation bill," retorted Chairman Padgett.

"The Philadelphia navy yard is a small part of preparedness," exclaimed Mr. Britten. "Certainly it is no more important than the council of national defense, which the chairman held to be out of order during consideration of this bill."

"That was a legislative subject," said Chairman Padgett.

"Well," said Mr. Britten, picking up his hat, "I leave the chairman to conduct these hearings as he sees fit."

Mr. Britten walked rapidly from the room and the hearings proceeded. The Naval Affairs Committee expects to hear Secretary Daniels and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt before the end of the week. The testimony of these officials will practically close the hearings, which have been in progress since the beginning of the year. After the hearings end it will require probably two weeks to get the naval appropriation bill ready for report to the House.

Veterans of Philippines Back Mexican Invasion

The Eighth Army Corps, veterans of the Philippine service, elected the following officers last night: William A. Hickey, president; Edwin O'Connor, secretary; Jerry Sullivan, treasurer; Charles J. Roberts, Edward McDevitt, John C. O'Brien, and Edward Carroll, trustees.

The organization lauded the President for ordering troops into Mexico, and the members signified their intention of rallying to the colors should affairs in the republic warrant sending a larger force.

Indorsement of the bill in Congress qualifying enlisted men to enter West Point was given by the organization.

The action of Commander-in-Chief L. C. Dyer, of the United States Army, in offering the services of their organizations in the Mexican crisis was commended by unanimous vote.

Sister Asks Power to Handle Sister's Estate

A petition for letters testamentary to administer the estate of her sister, Jean Lawson, valued at more than $15,000, was filed in the Probate Court yesterday by Gertrude Lawson through Attorneys Maddox & Gately.

The estate includes cash amounting to $2,344.45, stocks and bonds valued at $8,200, debts due the deceased aggregating $5,000 and a half interest in a collection of Korean paintings and ceramics and Japanese prints.

Take Personal Opinions.

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

The hearing finally proceeded, but when Mr. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was called to testify regarding improvements for the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, Mr. Britten objected to the bill to break in with these minor bills.

"These bills are directly connected with the preparedness issue," he suggested indignantly, "that we are considering miscellaneous bills when the country is howling for preparedness. It is not fair to the House nor the country which is waiting for our appropriation bill to break in with these minor bills."

Chairman Padgett said this was because witnesses express their personal opinions. Mr. Britten interrupted with the statement that Admiral Fiske had information of interest to impart to the committee, but his views had not been obtained because Mr. Padgett, at the instance of Secretary Daniels, decided not to call him.

A heated colloquy followed. Chairman Padgett sarcastically asserting that for the benefit of the committee he would say that he had not discussed with Secretary Daniels the question of hearing Admiral Fiske. Mr. Padgett advised Mr. Britten to read the testimony given by Admiral Fiske a year ago if he desired to know the admiral's views.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood. ADMIRAL VON TIRPITZ.

not to report the disappearance of submarines unless von Tirpitz demanded to know the whereabouts of such and such an undersea boat.

"The strain became too much. Both the foreign and German newspapers—the latter boastfully—connected the name of von Tirpitz with submarine horrors. The thing became too personal."

"Von Tirpitz was a man of magnificent physique before the war, but it simply broke him down."

Lawson, valued at more than $15,000, was filed in the Probate Court yesterday by Gertrude Lawson through Attorneys Maddox & Gately.

The estate includes cash amounting to $2,344.45, stocks and bonds valued at $8,200, debts due the deceased aggregating $5,000 and a half interest in a collection of Korean paintings and ceramics and Japanese prints.

FATIMA

a sensible cigarette

20 for 15¢

Worshipful

1110 G. N. W.

Come and Hear a Demonstration

Buy Your Grafonola and Records the Easy Way

Payments arranged to suit you. Our easy ownership plan makes it possible.

Hear the New April COLUMBIA RECORDS

YOU get PERFECT records when you enter West here—fresh, tested records, not demonstration or shop-handled stock. And our service to Columbia patrons is equally satisfactory in all other respects.

GRAFONOLAS of every wanted style and finish. Convenient terms. Call, Write, or Phone M. 535.

ARTHUR JORDAN, Owner G Street at 13th

M. PHILIPS, 1233 7th St. N. W.

A few of the April Records selected from Our Complete Stock

A 1894 10-inch 75c. "Hassan" in the Cold, Cold Ground. Taylor Trio. Piano, violin and cello. Darling Nellie Gray. Taylor Trio. Piano, violin and cello.

A 1894 10-inch 65c. Good-Bye Red Man. Campbell and Burr. tenor and baritone. All Aboard for Chinatown. Arthur Collins, baritone, and Byron G. Harlan, tenor. Orch. accomp.

A 1892 10-inch 75c. Hackety Coe, from "Kismet". Grace Nash, soprano, and Sam Ash, tenor. Orch. accomp.

A 1892 10-inch 75c. I Gave My Heart and Hand to Some One in Dixie Land. Peerless Quartette. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. Yacka Hoola Hekey Doo. A. J. Jolson, baritone. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. You Can't Get Along With 'Em or Without 'Em. Anna Chandler mezzo soprano. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. Hello, Hawaii! How Are You? Anna Chandler, mezzo soprano. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. When You're Down in Louisville. Anna Chandler, mezzo soprano. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. Come in and Hear the OPEN LATE EVENINGS

Gustav Stickley, the Craftsman, says: "Our Autocar carries Craftsman furniture to every part of the District. It handles both city and suburban deliveries excellently and gives us faultless service."

More than 3,000 other concerns in all lines of business use the Autocar. Call on the Autocar Sales and Service Co., 1707 14th St. N. W., Washington, a Factory Branch of the Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pa., or write for illustrated catalogue.

Gustav Stickley, the Craftsman, says: "Our Autocar carries Craftsman furniture to every part of the District. It handles both city and suburban deliveries excellently and gives us faultless service."

More than 3,000 other concerns in all lines of business use the Autocar. Call on the Autocar Sales and Service Co., 1707 14th St. N. W., Washington, a Factory Branch of the Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pa., or write for illustrated catalogue.

Gustav Stickley, the Craftsman, says: "Our Autocar carries Craftsman furniture to every part of the District. It handles both city and suburban deliveries excellently and gives us faultless service."

More than 3,000 other concerns in all lines of business use the Autocar. Call on the Autocar Sales and Service Co., 1707 14th St. N. W., Washington, a Factory Branch of the Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pa., or write for illustrated catalogue.

ASKS HOUSE TO GET MILK TO GERMANY

Congressman Emerson Resumes Fight to Have Representations Made to Allies.

Congressman Robert I. Emerson, of Ohio, renewed his efforts today to get Congress to request the State Department to make strong representations to the allies with a view to getting shipments of condensed milk through to the babies of Germany and Austria.

The renewed efforts of Mr. Emerson were due to the publication in this country of a London cable quoting Lord Cecil Roberts as saying that the movement started by Mr. Emerson was a German propaganda.

"The agitation in America for the export of milk for babies is the most dishonest and insincere feature of the propaganda which Germans have conducted in the United States," Lord Roberts is quoted as saying.

Mr. Emerson has asked a dozen or more members of Congress who are interested in the movement to hold a conference over the situation, and this probably will be held promptly. Mr. Emerson is pending a resolution asking the State Department to press negotiations with the allies for the removal of the embargo against shipments of milk to Germany and Austria.

Not German Propaganda.

The Ohio member says his movement is not a German propaganda, but is inspired by humanitarian considerations. Thousands of helpless infants, he says, are dying in Germany and Austria.

Mr. Emerson today received a number of telegrams from Germans and others in New York protesting against the construction that has been given in England to his efforts.

"I presume," said Mr. Emerson, "that it is true the Germans are in sympathy with this movement to get milk into Germany. Why not?"

Meeting Is Called.

"I still believe our Government should take the step I have suggested. A meeting of twenty members of the House who are favorable to the resolution I have introduced has been called and we are going to make every effort to get action on it by Congress."

The cabled statement of Lord Roberts quotes him as saying that "this campaign is all the more inexcusable from the fact that its sponsors are deliberately playing upon the finest motives of a charitable people. The possible distress and suffering of babies, no matter what their nationality, must go direct to the hearts of your most generous citizens without regard to the direction of their sympathies in this war."

It is believed by Mr. Emerson that the State Department would be strengthened in an effort to get shipments of condensed milk through to Germany and Austria were Congress to ask it to make special representations to the allies in this respect.

Established 33 Years

Helbig Bros. 1742 Seventh St. N. W.

We invite you to call and hear the latest Columbia records for the month of April.

Buy Your Grafonola and Records the Easy Way

Payments arranged to suit you. Our easy ownership plan makes it possible.

Worshipful 1110 G. N. W.

Come and Hear a Demonstration

Hear the New April COLUMBIA RECORDS

YOU get PERFECT records when you enter West here—fresh, tested records, not demonstration or shop-handled stock. And our service to Columbia patrons is equally satisfactory in all other respects.

GRAFONOLAS of every wanted style and finish. Convenient terms. Call, Write, or Phone M. 535.

ARTHUR JORDAN, Owner G Street at 13th

M. PHILIPS, 1233 7th St. N. W.

A few of the April Records selected from Our Complete Stock

A 1894 10-inch 75c. "Hassan" in the Cold, Cold Ground. Taylor Trio. Piano, violin and cello. Darling Nellie Gray. Taylor Trio. Piano, violin and cello.

A 1894 10-inch 65c. Good-Bye Red Man. Campbell and Burr. tenor and baritone. All Aboard for Chinatown. Arthur Collins, baritone, and Byron G. Harlan, tenor. Orch. accomp.

A 1892 10-inch 75c. Hackety Coe, from "Kismet". Grace Nash, soprano, and Sam Ash, tenor. Orch. accomp.

A 1892 10-inch 75c. I Gave My Heart and Hand to Some One in Dixie Land. Peerless Quartette. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. Yacka Hoola Hekey Doo. A. J. Jolson, baritone. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. You Can't Get Along With 'Em or Without 'Em. Anna Chandler mezzo soprano. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. Hello, Hawaii! How Are You? Anna Chandler, mezzo soprano. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. When You're Down in Louisville. Anna Chandler, mezzo soprano. Orch. accomp.

A 1894 10-inch 75c. Come in and Hear the OPEN LATE EVENINGS

Gustav Stickley, the Craftsman, says: "Our Autocar carries Craftsman furniture to every part of the District. It handles both city and suburban deliveries excellently and gives us faultless service."

More than 3,000 other concerns in all lines of business use the Autocar. Call on the Autocar Sales and Service Co., 1707 14th St. N. W., Washington, a Factory Branch of the Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pa., or write for illustrated catalogue.

Gustav Stickley, the Craftsman, says: "Our Autocar carries Craftsman furniture to every part of the District. It handles both city and suburban deliveries excellently and gives us faultless service."

More than 3,000 other concerns in all lines of business use the Autocar. Call on the Autocar Sales and Service Co., 1707 14th St. N. W., Washington, a Factory Branch of the Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pa., or write for illustrated catalogue.

Gustav Stickley, the Craftsman, says: "Our Autocar carries Craftsman furniture to every part of the District. It handles both city and suburban deliveries excellently and gives us faultless service."